

Tutor Chat: Worcester Library
Literacy Volunteers of Greater Worcester

3/11/09 @ 5:00 starting with Calzones and when finished we'll mosey off to the computer lab

Learning Objective: Participants will be able to search the featured Web site and locate activities, worksheets, media, and lessons for use for tutors to use with their students.

Central SABES Web site collection:

<http://sites.google.com/site/centralsabesweblinks/>

Tour Of:

WWW.Thinkfinity.org

"You'll find a wealth of free top-quality, exciting and engaging educational resources that support the skills we all need for success in the 21st century."

I chose this site because of its search ability of a mountain of materials including: Search for Lesson plans, Interactive activities and more...

i.e. a search for ESL brings up 145 results including:

- Volunteering in a ESL Program - Page #1
The experience of an ESL tutor
- Using authentic materials in ABE and ESL - Page #1
- "I'm a banana, what are you" an ESL activity - Page #2
- Teaching survival vocabulary - Page #2
- Count me in - Page - Page #15

i.e. a search for Tutors brings up 83 results including:

- The Ripple Effect - Page #2
- Podcast: “Guided Repeated Oral Reading” Page #4

This site has different resource types and grade levels including Adult Education

Thinkfinity is a Educational Partner with Massachusetts DESE for training [Department of Elementary and Secondary Education]

<http://www.doe.mass.edu/edtech/teacher/thinkfinity.html>

It’s also a great site for your students to use outside of you time spent with the student including maps, games and activities, homework help

If your students are parents there are resources available for them to use with their children and in turn for their own development it’s just a search away... Let’s give this a try?

Web site shared by Paris during the session www.idiomsconnection.com