

It's OK. I have used this website for a long time but i can't copy the link of the pictures i want and paste them into my Yahoo 360 so then i i had to upload the same pictures to Flickr.

You mean "Voice Thread" topic, right? Anyway, it was so slow that I spent most of my time waiting for screens to load. Not interesting to me anyway at this time but I'll try looking at the voicethread.com site in future (maybe).

The technology is great and it is easy to use. I particularly like the video doodling capability because it offers new ways to incorporate videos into lessons.

Thanks so much for introducing me to this wonderful feature. I have created a voice thread account but still need more time to "play" with it. However, I really enjoyed what I saw and can't wait to try it on my own. Also. I do have a microphone. I had said I did not (in the previous section) but seeing this section I realized I have a headset microphone (This goes to show you my wonderful knowledge of technology!).

Thanks.

Wow. Very intricate and powerful. I won't be using it soon, but am amazed at the possibilities!

this is great - and can be used in the classroom immediately! even with just a few laptop info or photos could be sent around room for recorded comments and sharing. seems user friendly. so glad to know about it.
